A retirement community? No way. At least that was my answer when my wife first approached me. Once we ran the numbers, though, I changed my mind. I had no idea how much time and money I was wasting on home maintenance. And how much time and energy my wife was spending on housework.

I've always loved cooking, but preparing meals for one gets old after a while. So I snacked ... and my daughter worried about my health. When I moved to Independence Village I realized what I had been missing. Fresh fruits and vegetables. Expertly prepared meats and fish. Suddenly I'm hungry again!
